DETAILED ACTION

Applicant amended the claims and thus the prior rejections are withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 6 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. That an item is "configured" is vague and does not claim what this intends.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-2, and 4-11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USPN 5,454,600 to Floyd in view of USPN 5,885,229 to Yamato et al.

Floyd teaches an infinite array of images may be contained in an identification label (col. 4, lines 27-30) on substrates such as fabric, plastic, an article of clothing such as a shirt, or similar materials (equivalent to a personal item and cloth, col. 3, lines 25-28, col. 4, line 35).

Art Unit: 1774

The printed image is applied to a designed label, ironed on a shirt for the purpose of identifying the child during an abduction (configured to be worn equivalency). See col. 1, lines 5-20 and lines 40-65, col. 2, line 3, lines 20-35 (instant claims 1-2, 6-7, 11).

However, Floyd does not teach an image having two-dimensional sampling of a pressure distribution as claimed wherein differently colored and different shaded elements are present (instant claims 1-2, 4-7).

Yamato teaches an two-dimensional distribution patterns printed in different colors obtained by walking by foot as claimed (Abstract, col. 3, lines 10-45, col. 4, lines 1-30).

Thus, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have modified the identification label of Floyd to add the two-dimensional printout image of Yamato because Floyd suggests attaching any printed image to a personal item and Yamato teaches a printed pattern printed illustrating walking patterns obtained via walking as claimed. (Abstract, col. 3, lines 35-50, col. 12, lines 32-65, col. 17, lines 20-25, and lines 60-65). Thus, in combination, Applicant's invention is taught. Claim 1-2, 4-7 are met.

Further to claim 7, that an image is impressed by a thermotransfer process for reproducing patterns is a process limitation in a product claim. Product-by-process claims are not limited to the manipulations of the recited steps, only the structure implied by the steps. Patentability of an article depends on the article itself and not the method used to produce it (see MPEP 2113). Furthermore, the invention defined by a product-by-process invention is a product NOT a process. In re Bridgeford, 357 F. 2d 679. It is the patentability of the product claimed and NOT of the recited process steps which must be established. In re Brown, 459 F. 2d 531. Both Applicant's and prior art reference's product are the same.
